BISMARCK'S SPEECH

The Occasion His Eightieth Birthday.

HIS DEVOTION TO GERMANY

The People Enthusiastically Cheer the Venerable Statesman's Utterances.

FRIEDRICHSRUHE, March 25.—Three special trains, having on board 400 members of the reichstag and of the Prussian diet, arrived here today and were received at the station by a deputation headed by Count Herbert Bismarck. They were taken to the castle front, where they were received in a body by Prince Bismarck.

Upon reaching the garden the guests proceeded to the rear of the house, where there is a large balcony. Prince Bismarck, accompanied by his sons, his daughter and his son-in-law, all in deep mourning, appeared on the terrace and were received with loud cheers by the visitors below. Spokesmen from the several branches of the legislature made speeches, briefly conveying the fervent hope that Prince Bismarck would long be spared to enjoy his well-earned repose.

Prince Bismarck, standing close to the stone balustrade, replied in a loud and clear voice, distinctly audible to all present. He spoke for nearly twenty minutes, emphasizing his remarks with frequent gestures of the hand. The self-deprecatory remarks with which he began were answered with loud shouts of "Nein."

The Prince thanked the deputation for the high honor conferred upon him by their visit and declared that the Sachsenwald had never before seen such a notable company.

After speaking for some time of German politics, Bismarck paused and said: "Gentlemen, I could say much more if I were strong and rough. I am a weary man [Loud cries of no, no!] I am grateful for your patient attention, and still more for the honor you have shown me. I regret that I am not in a position to work with you in parliament [Cries of not as much as we do.] but I am not strong enough to stand the conflicts of life in Berlin [Much laughter.] In many respects I have become old, but at the same time I have obtained comfort, and desire to close my life in the house I now inhabit, but my thoughts perhaps are more with you than is fit for a man of my age [Cries of no, no!] but I cannot suddenly abandon all my old thoughts simply because I have grown old and am in bad health. You have not forsaken me, and I cannot give better expression to the feeling that I have inspired than by requesting you to continue to think of the empire, even in the Prussian days, and not to forget that you are guarantees for the empire and that the king is also your emperor and has duties toward the empire and toward the states. Remember also that you must help him to execute not only a policy for Brandenburg or Prussia, but also an imperial German policy. With this thought I beg you to join me in cheers for his majesty. Long live his majesty, the emperor and king." The toast was received with thunders of applause, and when the enthusiasm had subsided, three cheers were given for Prince Bismarck, who in response said:

"Gentlemen, I thank you for the honor you have done me. I thank you again and again and wish that I could give you all a bed, but I was obliged to take this as you see, and I never thought I should end my days here. I have always felt too old to undertake additions to the buildings. I can even console myself with the sentiment that for a loving pair there is room enough in the small cottage [great laughter] since there is not room enough here for 400 of my fellow countrymen, who all love each other."

This happy response from the old Chancellor, whose eyes were now twinkling with merriment, was greeted with love and admiration.

The crowd then gave three tremendous "hooks" for Prince Bismarck. Then Prince Bismarck led the cheers for the emperor which were enthusiastically given. At the luncheon Count Stolberg-Wernigerode, who recently resigned the presidency of east Prussia, proposed Prince Bismarck's health in a short speech. The special train returned to Berlin at 3.30 p.m.

Emperor William is expected here to visit Prince Bismarck tomorrow and a brilliant military suite will accompany him. Prince Bismarck received the deputations today, despite the unceasing warnings of his physician, Dr. Schweninger, and his secretary, Dr. Chrysander, and he will practically celebrate his 80th birthday with the whole of the general people.

The desire to testify their love and admiration of the unifier of Germany is spontaneous and general throughout the country.

San Francisco Races.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—For several days owners have been afraid to start their horses against Lucky Dog, and two races in one week were declared off on that account. Today two horses started against Reed's cracker, and both of them beat him, Lucky Dog was 1 to 4 in the betting, and big money was wagered on him at those odds. He ran a good race, but carried too much weight.

Five and a half furlongs, selling—Mutineer won, Lodi 2, Middleton 3. Time, 1.10.

Half-mile—Miss Brummet won, Joan 2, Red Pike 3. Time, 0.50.

Mile, selling—Ingomar won, Miss Buckley 2, Mary S 3. Time, 1.44¾.

Six furlongs, selling—Wheel of Fortune won, Faro 2, Boreas 3. Time, 1.19.

Six furlongs—Midas won, Thorn 2, Lucky Dog 3. Time, 1.14¼.

Five furlongs, selling—Royal flush won, Sir Richard 2, Mainstay 3. Time, 1.01.

Fell Sixty-five Feet, But Not Hurt.

OAKLAND, March 25.—Oliver Pierson is the luckiest man in town. He fell headforemost sixty-five feet this morning, and he was at work this afternoon just as if nothing of the kind had happened. Pierson was working on a building in course of erection. As he fell he succeeded in grasping a dangling rope, which retarded the speed of his descent, and though he started head first, he managed to alight on his feet in a spring wagon, which stood directly underneath. He received no injury except a shaking up and the burning of his hands by the rapid passage through them of the rope.

Budd Reprieves a Murderer.

SACRAMENTO, March 25. — Governor Budd this afternoon granted a reprieve to William Leary, sentenced to hang at Monterey next Friday. He is granted a further lease of life to April 11th.

BAKERSFIELD ELOPERS.

Isador Hirschfeld and Myrtle Walker Married at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The tugboat Vigilant took a happy young couple outside the heads to-day, and Captain Brokaw made the young people man and wife. The young folks are said to be a Mr. Nelson and Miss Hirschler, aged respectively 20 and 16 years. Who they are and where they are from seems to be a mystery to all but their companionson the voyage, but from a person who claims to know the newly married couple it was learned late this afternoon that Mr. Nelson is John C. McElroy of Beloit, Wis. He came to California with his prospective bride, and after stopping a few days in Stockton he hastened to San Francisco. A very interesting story is believed to be connected with the elopement.

It now turns out that the ocean wedded couple are Isador Hirschfeld and Myrtle Walker of Bakersfield. Hirschfeld's father is a capitalist and Miss Walker is the daughter of a well-to-do contractor. They have been engaged for a year, but their parents would not consent to the match, so on Saturday night, after the second act of amateaur dramatic performance, in which young Hirschfeld was one of the stars, the couple left town and boarded the train for this city, where they had some difficulty in securing the services of a master mariner, but they finally succeeded in winning Captain Brokard over to their cause, and so they are man and wife, and only need the forgiveness of their parents to be perfectly happy.

PINING FOR EACH OTHER

MRS. SCHOONOVER STILL HAS TWO HUSBANDS.

Another Delay Inevitable Before She Can Be Legally Released From No. 1.

OAKLAND, March 25.—It is now a month since Mrs. C. R. Schoonover discovered to her dismay that she has two husbands, and she has yet been unable to learn whether she is Mrs. C. R. Schoonover of Oakland or Mrs. L. R. Maxon of Walla Walla. She had lived with Schoonover for a week as his wife when her honeymoon was interrupted by a superior court decision pronouncing her divorce from Maxon invalid, inasmuch as the statutory time allowed for Maxon to contest the proceedings had elapsed. So a summons was served on Maxon in Walla Walla, he not being opposed to the divorce, with a proper service return and evidence that Maxon had neglected to contest within the sixty days allowed should be produced, that a new divorce might be granted in Oakland. Sheriff Rose of Walla Walla made the necessary return a few days ago, and the divorce case was set for Wednesday. It has now been found that as Sheriff Rose is an officer of another state, his signature cannot be recognized without an affidavit before a notary. Another delay is therefore inevitable. In the meantime Mrs. Schoonover or Maxon and her new husband are living apart, and are pining for each other.

VALLEY RAILROAD.

Seven Trustees Will be Named by the Subscribers.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The stockholders of the San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley Railroad will meet on Friday, April 5th, when the pooling trust will be submitted to the subscribers for their ratification. The plan provides that, "to insure the maintenance of reduced transportation rates as the fixed policy of the company to insure the permanence of its competition, the voting power of the stock must be confided to seven trustees, who shall by its exercise in the choice of directors and otherwise effect those purposes."

The conditions of the trust require that the trustees shall not knowingly vote the stock for the benefit or in the interest of any person, corporation or interest hostile to the interest of, or in business competition with the San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley railroad, or in favor of any company controlling any line of railroad. It is provided that there shall be seven trustees and that the pool, unless revoked by a three-fourths vote of the holders of the trustee certificates shall last ten years. The trustees will be named by the subscribers, but a list of nominations will be presented to the meeting by a committee of the board of directors.

A committee from San Jose will confer with the management tomorrow in reference to a proposition from Santa Clara. Chief Engineer Storey and some of the directors will visit Stockton this week, and will go to San Jose subsequently to examine their respective proposals.

Newspaper Men in Court.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 25.—D. O. McCarthy, J. H. McCarthy and their four friends who assisted them in getting possession of the Vidette office Saturday and holding it against all comers, appeared before Justice Bryan today and pleaded not guilty to the charge of unlawfully entering and taking possession of the property of another. It was informally agreed that they should appear again tomorrow morning, when the time for trial will be set. Dr. F. G. Powers and Charles Overshiner, charged with malicious mischief in crippling the Vidette press, also appeared and the same action was taken with their case.

Ex-Convict Fatally Stabbed.

FORT BRAGG, Cal., March 25.—Fritz Heldt came to town tonight and gave himself up to City Marshal Golden, stating that he had fatally cut John Conzette with a knife at Cleoneville, four miles north of this place. From a doctor it was learned Conzette's head was almost severed from his body. Heldt claims self defense. Conzette was an ex-convict, having served six years in San Quentin prison for the murder of his wife.

A Wealthy Chinaman Murdered.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 25.—Sam Lee, a wealthy Chinese merchant of this city, was found dead in his store last night, his throat cut from ear to ear. There is no clew as to who committed the crime, but suspicion rests on several Mexicans. The murderers got about $800 from Lee's trunk.

Oranges at Auction.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The San Francisco Fruit Auction Company had an offering of oranges today, selling as follows: Fancy Navels, $1.65 and $1.20; choice, $1.50 and $1.30; standard, $1.05 and $1.55; unwrapped, 85c; fancy Seedlings, $1.05 and $1.30; choice, 75c and $1; standard, 60c and 95c; unwrapped, 55c and 60c.

ENGLAND'S ULTIMATUM

The Nicaragua Minister Consulting Gresham.

STATE DEPARTMENT ANXIOUS

For a Statement From Bayard Explaining the Purpose of Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Dr. Guzman, the Nicaragua minister, was at the state department this morning, and the inference is that he has been consulting Secretary Gresham regarding the ultimatum. It is evident the state department is doubly concerned in this matter, and a statement from Ambassador Bayard explaining the purpose of Great Britain is anxiously looked for. It is not believed our government can object to the creation of a committee of fair complexion to ascertain and find damages sustained by British subjects in Nicaragua, and the issue appears to have narrowed down to the demand of an indemnity of £75,000 for the expulsion of Mr. Hatch, the British consular agent at Bluefields.

There is already a disposition to examine into the matter further and ascertain whether the Nicaraguan government did not act entirely within its rights in expelling the consular agent. It was charged by the Nicaraguans that Hatch, who was not a diplomatic officer and so could claim no exemption on that score, took an active part in the political turmoil at Bluefields and did much to secure the overthrow of the Nicaraguan government in the town and the reinstatement of Chief Clarence.

If this were true, then under ordinary circumstances there would be little doubt of the right of the Nicaraguan government to expel him from the country. But the conditions in Bluefields at the time were not ordinary, for, according to the British contention, the Mosquito reservation was actually under a British protectorate up to the date of the Mosquito convention.

DIED OF GRIEF.

Once a Happy Salvation Lassie and Married an Ex-Convict.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—Two years ago Ena Yoder was a happy Salvation lassie. She was then 16 years of age and married an ex-convict named Parks who professed conversion. Parks treated her badly and a year later she secured a divorce. Today she died of grief at her parent's home in Fruitvale.

Successful Experiments.

STOCKTON, March 25.—The experiments of growing sugar cane on the islands of San Joaquin county have been so successful that the government is now preparing to engage in the culture on a larger scale. Two experts, who were recently sent here by the Spreckels to inquire into the government's experience in growing sugar cane, were so surprised by this development that they procured two tons of first-class sugar cane from the Hawaiian islands and other sections to make thorough tests of the land. The cane was received at the Williams & Bixlow tract a few days ago and is now being set out for thorough cultivation. The experts representing Spreckels in this expect to see the sugar cane grow here to a height of thirty-five feet and to contain more saccharine matter than any cane raised in this country.

How Far Newspapers May Go.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—A case which has just been docketed in the United States supreme court will probably test the question of the length to which a newspaper can go in the use of objectionable language and still find access to the mails. The case is that of the United States vs. Mark Swearingen, and comes to the supreme court on allegations of error in the United States circuit court of Kansas, which found Swearingen, who was the editor of a paper published at Burlington, Kan., guilty of improper use of the mails. The offense consisted in the publication of abusing an employe of a rival paper, in which language was used which the postal authorities pronounced obscene.

Something Will Drop Soon.

CARSON, Nev., March 25.—It is quite evident something is in the air here with regard to the mint robbery, and it is said something will drop in a day or two. The present officials and employes are quietly smiling, and their bondsmen are indulging in handshaking among themselves, although when approached they assume a contented air and say nothing. Inspector Mason says some bad business has been going on, but can say nothing yet. The general impression here is the blame has been at least shifted from the shoulders of the present administration.

Death of a Methodist Minister.

OAKLAND, March 25.—Rev. E. A. Hazen, a Methodist minister, was found dead in his room in a Ninth street lodging house today. Death is supposed to have resulted from cancer. Rev. Hazen came here recently from Porterville, Tulare county. Deceased came to California in 1852 as a missionary. In 1857 he established the first Methodist church at Yreka, and later he established missions at Watsonville, Grass Valley, Santa Cruz and other points. In recent years he has been obliged to resort to bookselling to gain a livelihood.

Shooting Affray at a Dance.

SAN JOSE, March 25.—News has been received here of a fatal shooting affray that occurred at Mayfield last night. At a dance attended by Swedes, Andrew Gabrelson and John Pierson quarreled. When they went into the street to fight, Oscar Johnson took a hand in the row, and shot Pierson, mortally wounding him. Johnson fled, but was arrested at Menlo Park.

Indian Acquitted of Murder.

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Mateo Pa, the Indian from the Riverside reservation who was arrested and tried before a jury in the United States circuit court for the murder of Mrs. Mary J. Platt on the night of September 24, 1894, was acquitted this afternoon. The jury was out but five minutes, and the verdict of acquittal was unanimous.

Thrown From a Horse and Killed.

SANTA CRUZ, March 25.—Coroner Clark held an inquest yesterday over Peter McGovern, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered. The deceased was thrown from a horse near Corrilitos and dragged a quarter of a mile. He was a native of New Brunswick, aged 38 years.

SCHOONER STOLEN.

The Star of Freedom Missing for Two Weeks.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The little schooner Star of Freedom has been stolen, and is now probably engaged in some smuggling scheme along the coast. The vessel has been missing for two weeks. She has as yet completely disappeared as if swallowed up by the sea. The schooner is owned by Captain W. Johnson, owner and commander of the Nicaraguan brig Salvador. Her last sea voyage was from La Pay to this point. She arrived here several months ago, since which time she has been lying on the Mission mud flats in charge of a watchman.

Captain Johnson's wife looks after the craft during her husband's absence and some time ago she went to the wharf to see if all was well, but found that the Star of Freedom and the watchman had disappeared. Instead of reporting the loss she waited until her husband returned. He arrived last week and reported the loss to collector of the port.

Some time ago a man named Bartels desired to charter the Star of Freedom, but Mrs. Johnson would not let him have the schooner. Bartels had some notoriety about two years ago when he arrived in port on the schooner Achilles from Portland, Or. A telegram was received by Collector Wise from Portland, requesting him to hold the vessel on her arrival as she had been stolen. A reward was offered for the capture of Bartels and the Achilles, but the reward, although claimed, was never paid. Bartheis was not prosecuted either. He said that he was a part owner in the Achilles and the matter dropped.

The Star of Freedom is a fleet little craft of about 23 tons. She is 54 feet long, 20x6 feet in breadth of beam, and 4x6 feet in depth of hold.

HURLEY CONFESSES.

HE IMPLICATES OTHERS IN THE M'DONALD JOB.

He Was the One Juror Who Stood Out for Acquittal in the Curtis Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The trial of William J. Hurley, charged with attempting to bribe a juror in the case of the bank wrecker McDonald commenced today. Hurley, who has been shamming insanity, frequently interrupted the proceedings.

After a jury had been secured and the trial of the case actually begun, Hurley created a genuine sensation. Against the advice of his counsel he went on the witness stand and made a clean breast of his connection with the attempt to bribe jurors. He immediately implicated Deputy Sheriff Rock, who was under suspicion at the time of Hurley's arrest, and also Harry Piper, chief deputy county clerk. Hurley swore that R. H. McDonald had offered him $500 for each juror that he could get to vote for acquittal. He then went to Deputy Sheriff Rock, he said, and they agreed to manage the job together, Rock agreeing to summon the men to be named by Hurley. Hurley declared that Livernash, McDonald's attorney, had told the whole truth about the matter, but despite Livernash's assertions to the contrary, he insisted that McDonald had promised him $500 for each juror.

A juror asked Hurley whether he had ever been in the jury bribery business before. Hurley, it was remembered, was the one juror who stood out for acquittal on the trial of Actor Curtis for the murder of Policeman Grant.

"Never in my life," was Hurley's reply; "people thought that I was because I stood out for acquittal in the Curtis case, but that was all wrong. Harry Piper offered me $5000 for holding out, but I never got a cent." This ended Hurley's testimony.

The Strikers' Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—At the trial of the strikers, Mayne and Cassidy, in the United States district court today the government gained permission to prove the corporate existence of the Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky. Gerrit Lansing, secretary and controller of the Southern and Central Pacific, was a witness for this purpose. Under cross-examination Lansing remembered telegrams sent by H. J. Mills, superintendent of motive power, to all workshops, which said: "Close up your shops and shut down on everything." Asked how it was possible to move trains with the motive power gone, he said he did not know. The attorney for the defense called Eugene V. Debs to show the origin of the strike and who was to blame for it, but the court would not allow Debs to testify.

Slattery Hurriedly Leaves Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 25.—Ex-Priest Slattery lectured at the Auditorium tonight. The meeting came near ending in a serious disturbance, and but for the ex-priest's hurried exit from the city while the excitement was at its height he might have encountered rather severe treatment. There was no sign of disorder until near the close of the lecture, when a man in the center of the house cried excitedly, "You're a liar against religion." Half the audience was on their feet in an instant, but before the disturber could say anything more he was grabbed by an officer and arrested. After order was restored Slattery concluded his remarks without further interruption and took the first train for the south.

Senate Combine Scandal.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—H. M. LaRue, the foreman of the Sacramento grand jury, says that body has not decided yet whether to investigate the senate combine scandal exploited by Senator Biggy or not. He positively declares that the matter has never been officially discussed by the grand jury, any references to it having been made by individuals.

Signaled Thirty-Six Miles.

AUBURN, Cal., March 25.—The record was broken at Heliograph signaling here yesterday. Lieutenant Martin of Sacramento flashed and was immediately recognized at the capitol building, a distance of thirty-six miles. The record was twenty-five miles.

LI HUNG CHANG'S WOUND

It is Not Considered Dangerous.

NO VITAL ORGANS TOUCHED

Diplomats Inclined to Believe That Peace Negotiations May be Broken Off.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Information coming to the Chinese legation is to the effect that Li Hung Chang's wound is not dangerous, except as complications may develop. It is in the fleshy part of the face, but fortunately no part of the skull has been fractured or any vital organs touched. Prince Li's advanced age and several constitutional disorders, which make him almost an invalid, may aggravate a nowise harmful wound. On his arrival at Shimonoseki he was too sick to leave the ship which brought him. He had to be carried about, this being a necessity in his case as well as an honor due his rank. Officials of the Japanese legation say the offender will be charged with treason, as the assault is not only against the person of Li Hung Chang, but against the Chinese government.

It is probable also that the trial will be courtmartial, and conviction by courtmartial would mean the offender would be shot. Diplomats here are inclined to believe that the entire peace negotiations may be broken off by the assault, by affording a pretext for European intervention. Li himself will prevent such a failure, however, if it be possible.

Officials here regard it as settled that China and Japan have reached an understanding by which the former will extend territory south from Vladivostok so as to keep the harbor open the year around. This has been an acquisition Russia has long sought, as it gives an eastern outlet to the great Siberian railroad.

LONDON, March 25.—The Times has this dispatch from Kobe, which will be published tomorrow: Li Hung Chang is making good progress towards recovery from the effects of the bullet wound in his face inflicted yesterday by Moyama Kokunoshi. The wound has developed no dangerous symptoms. The would-be assassin is reported to be a lunatic. He has a criminal record, and has served a term of imprisonment.

A Hong Kong dispatch to the Times says that precautions against Japanese attack have been taken at Foo Chow, Amoy and Swatow. The harbor of Amoy has been planted with torpedoes, and it is thought probable that the Japanese will make an attempt to capture that place. The Chinese steamers are unable to enter the harbor of Tamsui, in northern Formosa, owing to the torpedoes placed there. The coolies employed on the wharves in Hong Kong have gone on a strike. A number of soldiers and convicts are employed in loading vessels.

A DIVORCE WILL FOLLOW.

W. D. Grady Faces an Injured Husband.

About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon an encounter between W. D. Grady and Leon Hart on the platform of the Fresno and San Francisco Pullman car on the sidetrack here attracted the attention of those who were near. Hart was trying to enter the car, and Grady was using his utmost endeavors to keep him out, and was asking him in an excited manner why he was spying around. While this was going on at one end of the car, Mrs. Hart was said to have made her escape at the other door. The war of words and also of actions, between Grady and Hart ran high for some time, but the latter was prevented from entering the car.

This Pullman leaves Fresno for San Francisco at 3 p. m. It stands on the sidetrack here during the day in charge of the porter. Yesterday, while Mr. Hart was at work in Hart & Levy's store, dusting hats, a friend of his entered and said:

"If you want to see your wife, you will find her over at the depot in the Pullman car with Grady."

He hurried to the car, and was about to enter, when he was met by Grady and the encounter took place, referred to above. It is said that a suit for divorce will be instituted, perhaps today. Mr. Hart has several witnesses to the fact that his wife and Grady had met at that car many times before, and that it was a matter of common talk.

The New High School Building.

It is said that an indemnity bond to insure the Board of Education against loss if they begin the construction of the new high school building on the Terry block before the title difficulty is absolutely cleared, would be forthcoming were it not for the doubt of what the new board after the election will do.

A Burglar Arrested.

Deputy Constable Crutcher last night arrested Ed Reynolds for burglarizing a room in a lodging house between Mariposa and Fresno streets. Reynolds stole a suit of clothes from the room. After he had been arrested he took the officer to where the stolen goods were. He is supposed to be wanted in Texas for similar crimes.

Charles Brown's Bail.

Charles Brown's bail was yesterday reduced from $8000 to $2000 in bonds or $1500 in cash bail. Thuson, the man whom Brown shot a few weeks ago, has about recovered from his wounds. Brown is attempting to raise the cash bail. The matter will come up before Justice St. John tomorrow.

A Challenge.

We, the members of the Easton Debating club of Easton, do hereby issue a challenge to the Easton High School Rhinoceros literary society to debate with us at our hall, on Walnut avenue, Saturday night, March 30, 1895. We will debate upon any subject that they may name and take either side of the question, the debate to consist of six on a side.

COMPARE THE RECORDS.

As a city election impends and the question what party shall hold power in Fresno during the next term will soon be decided, it is of direct interest to examine the records made by Republicans and Democrats in the administration of city affairs. This can best be done by investigating and comparing the expense of the city government under the two parties. To this end the following facts and figures are presented, and their accuracy can be demonstrated by anybody who cares to investigate for himself.

Taxes collected by Democratic officials in 1891 from the property owners of Fresno amounted to $75,719.52, and in 1892 they amounted to $82,476.38. Then the Republicans went into office, and they collected $69,691.48 for the expenses of the city government in 1893, and $60,219.74 in 1894. That is to say, the direct saving to the people in two years was $28,285.18, or an average of $14,142.59 a year. Do these figures seem to argue that Fresno should return to Democratic rule?

During the first three months of 1893 the Democratic city government of Fresno expended $13,477.65 in the street department, mainly in an endeavor to retain control of municipal affairs. The Republican administration, which succeeded the Triangle, expended during the remainder of 1893 (nine months), $12,124.13, and this latter sum covered the entire expense of water and labor for sprinkling all the paved and graded streets during long, hot summer months; also street lights and labor of every description. Does anybody think those figures argue in favor of the Democracy?

The Democratic city government expended in the street department in 1892, $17,389.28. For the year 1894 the Republican administration expended in the same department $12,312.38. During the year 1892 four sprinkling wagons covered 136 blocks of graded and paved streets, and in 1894 eight wagons sprinkled the graded and paved streets covering a distance of 223 blocks. Return the Democrats to office, and citizens may have some more of this record.

The present Republican city administration has improved the fire department by the addition of one steamer at a cost of $4700; a hose wagon, $375; 2000 feet of hose, $1800; an electric indicator, $275; two heaters, $475; 25 additional hydrants, $1400; a new set of swinging harness, $154; and we have yet to hear the first intimation of jobbery, corruption or extravagance.

At its first meeting in March, 1894, the Republican city council altered water rates so as to affect a saving of over $6000 annually to rate payers. At its meeting on the 4th day of March, 1895, still further reductions in water rates were made, which will save at least $5,000 more per annum to the rate payers. Did any one ever hear of a Democratic board of trustees in the city of Fresno proposing a reduction of water rates?

It is costing the taxpayers of Fresno $100 per month less to care for sewage under the present city administration than it has under previous administrations. After October 1st a further saving of $150 per month has already been arranged for.

Go over the facts and figures as you may, they point in one direction indicated by the force of statistics. The person who yearns for a change in the party administration of local affairs will find little to comfort or encourage him in the comparative investigation of the city's books. The Republicans took charge of the city government when the treasury was not only empty, but the future income of the city was mortgaged to meet indebtedness incurred. Stringent measures of economy were necessary to pull the city out of the financial hole into which it had been plunged by Triangle extravagance, but the situation was met squarely and dealt with vigorously, and the city treasury is again in a solvent condition.

Democratic "reformers" have nothing to say regarding the "Triangle" administration. Republicans cordially invite a comparison of the present administration and the preceding Democratic regime.

Ir Governor McKinley said, as announced in a dispatch, that he would quit the Republican party if it declared itself in favor of free silver—but the REPUBLICAN doubts very much if he said it—it would be folly to attempt to disguise the fact that he thereby weakened his chances as a presidential candidate. At a low estimate it is probable that one-fifth of the Republicans of the west would refuse to vote for a pronounced anti-silver candidate, and it is doubtful if such a defection could be overcome. But, as before suggested, it is hardly credible that he said it.

The cheerful habit of throwing stones at Chinamen, in which white hoodlums occasionally indulge themselves, resulted in a death at San Jose last Sunday. The white boys threw stones and hit a Chinaman's horse, and it ran away, throwing the Mongolian out and killing him. Now, then, the victim of this assault wore a queue, but it happens that in this country there is just one law for white men and yellow. Let it take its course even-handedly and justly.

Another townsite swindle has just come to the surface in Kings county. That is, the swindle has come to the surface, though the townsite has not, and doubtless never will, as it is located on land that has during the memory of the oldest inhabitant been covered by the placid waters of Tulare lake. Many letters of inquiry are being received at Hanford from purchasers of lots in the new town, which has been given the appropriate name of Lakeview. Most of the inquiries are in regard to taxes, elaborate affair, showing railroad depots, school houses, churches and other public buildings, was filed by one Michael O'Brien, who is supposed to be the originator of the swindle. If so, Mr. O'Brien ought to be given the opportunity to enjoy the fruits of his fraud behind the bars in San Quentin. It is a disgrace to the state that so many of these real estate swindlers have been allowed to escape punishment. The Shellyville fraud in this county has been worked upon people in all parts of the United States, and has done the reputation of the county a great deal of damage. So long as these swindlers are permitted to go unpunished they will continue their nefarious work. It ought to be somebody's business to bring them to justice.

Miss Phebe Cousins, who is said to have been engaged to marry the late Senator Fair at the time of his death, is accredited with saying that she was first attracted to the Senator by his beautiful head. Miss Cousins is a lady of mature taste and years, and while her judgment in this respect need not be questioned, there are a great many people who believe that the proportions of the Senator's sack were much more attractive than those of his head.

The Herald says that Sanger is taking steps to induce the competing road to pass through that town, and expects to succeed. Our neighbor is certainly taking the right course in making an early presentation of its claims.

RANDOM REMARKS.

A Lodi man played one of those perambulating lotteries that two or three men go around the country and operate. It cost him just $2000. The verdure around Lodi is very beautiful at this season of the year.

There's going to be a sadness here when 'location day comes 'round:
There's going to be a weeping and a sorrow most profound;
There's going to be great gobs of grief a-darkening all the air,
And Democrats and Populists, I fear, are going to swear;
For they'll miss one faithful worker; they will miss him everywhere;
In the councils of reformers there will be one vacant chair.
Though they call for him at morning, and they plead when night is near,
They will miss one purifier—Mr. Grady won't be here.

In Stockton this afternoon an artist who was born in that city was to lecture on art. It will be interesting to know if the Stocktonese paid any attention to him.—Sacramento Bee.

Well, hardly; art is not good to eat, you know, and lectures are not dollars. When Stockton people turn out largely to a lecture on art this affiant may be included among the believers in the doctrine that the millenium is at hand. Does anybody consider this an unkind reflection on Stockton? He needn't; in its appreciation of art and mental culture that city is just about on a plane with a large part of Central California.

Up in Butte, Montana, a woman ran away from her husband because he would not buy her a bicycle. A woman is mighty hard to comprehend, anyhow. If she preferred a bicycle to a man (and that wouldn't be so strange) why didn't she marry one in the first place? Then if she decided that she wanted a man, and the bicycle didn't get her one, she could have run away from it. It seems as if this would have been better; yet she chose the other way. After she realizes what she has done, and pauses to reflect that now she has neither a bicycle nor a man, you can bet that she will miss somebody to get up and make the fire in the mornings.

The rumor that Governor Budd would appoint Sheriff Cunningham of Stockton as warden of San Quentin prison appears to be without foundation. Many a rumor of a worse appointment has proved to be true. There are few, if any, men in California who are as well adapted to discharge the duties of that position as Thomas Cunningham. In the nearly a quarter of a century during which he has held the office of sheriff of San Joaquin county he has made a record which is his gilt-edged indorsement. If the writer were Governor Budd instead of a man who didn't vote for him, "Tom" Cunningham could have that office if he wanted it, and if he didn't have it it would be only because he should reiterate what he now says: "I have entered into a four years' contract to serve the people of San Joaquin county and propose to fill that contract, as the people have treated me very well."

WHAT THE PHILOSOPHER SAID.

The town philosopher came in, took the easiest chair in the office, selected the best cigar from the large number with which the managing editor's friends keep him constantly supplied, removed the religious editor's hat and threw it in the waste-paper basket, so as to make room for his feet on the table, and sighed contentedly. The managing editor and the religious editor also sighed, but not contentedly.

"Say," the philosopher musingly remarked, "what's the use of all this dinged foolishness about the New Woman, with capital letters onto her name? I always said that newspaper men don't have no sense, and the way you treat that subjick is proof conclusive as holy writ. You write as if this here New Woman had met a metamorphocus from what women used to be. Now don't I know better? Sh'd say I did. You're forever talkin' about her an' her pants. Hain't women always worn—hain't they always worn clothes, I say, ever since Eve quit her a decollete dress out of a fig leaf an' wept because there wa'n't no leaf big enough to make the sleeves? Hey?

"S'posin' the New Woman does come; what then? She'll be just the same as women always was. She'll skeer away a burglar if her husband's away tonight like's not, and tomorrow she'll jump on the sofy an' yell for the janitor if she sees a mouse. You may break, you may shatter her skirts if you will, but the style of the woman 'll hang 'round her still, as the poet feller come mighty nigh sayin'. She'll be just the same. Sometimes she'll follow a man into the very depths of deggaradation an' trouble an' kind o' soothe and solace him with her comfortin' ways, like one o' God's own angels; and then again he'll give her all the love of his big, manly heart, and he'll sacrifice for her an' care for her tenderly, an' she'll want a divorce because he stepped on the kitten an' made it sing Wagner's music.

"That's the way it is with women. I know, 'cause I've watched 'em; an' you can call them New or call them Old, and you can let them put their Turkish trousers on their limbs or on the top half of their arms same's they do now—'twon't make no difference; some of 'em 'll be calkerated to lift a man up to heaven, and some of 'em 'll have a tendency to drag him down to the place that's been retired to innocuous desuetude since the revised edition of the New Testament come out. For you know," said the philosopher, with a sigh, "us men's got to be tied onto a woman's skirts or something, anyway, same's she's got to be tied onto our clothes. This New Woman stuff is all bosh; she'll be just the same."

And the philosopher got up and went out, feeling better, and the managing editor said:

"Thank heaven, we can go to work now."

And the religious editor said, "Amen!"

DAVISON-LAND.

A Quiet Wedding Solemnized Sunday Morning.

Miss Benora Davison of this city and George B. Land of San Francisco were united in marriage Sunday morning at the residence of the bride's parents at the corner of L and Calaveras streets. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Lucas in the presence of only a few intimate friends of the contracting parties.

Miss Davison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Davison, and is a charming young lady of many accomplishments.

The groom is a resident of San Francisco, where he is well known in business circles, holding the position of cashier in the Pacific Chair Company.

The interior of the residence was beautifully decorated with smilax, lilies and lilacs. The ceremony was performed in the bay window, under a canopy of smilax and flowers.

Miss Mamie Davison, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Harry Upton acted as best man.

The happy couple were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and useful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Land left on the 9.10 train on Sunday morning for the north, and after a short bridal tour will settle in San Francisco, where they will permanently reside.

Those present at the wedding were: Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. J. F. Holler, Mr. and Mrs. William Davison, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Grimes, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bedford, Ada Southwood and Benora Holler.

Hello Central!

Connect me with Stockton.
Hello: Here is the Flour Co.
Hello: Is this the salesman?
Yes, Fresno.
What is the price of Stockton flour?
$3 a barrel and the freight on it to Fresno is $1.04.
That will cost me $4.04.
Correct.
How is it that Scott, the leading grocer, sells it for $2.80?
Simply because he keeps in the middle of the road, and being surrounded with so many customers for miles around gives him a dead cinch on us, so we cannot control him so long as he stays in the middle of the road and treats his customers well.
Scott gives 17½ pounds sugar for $1; you can only get 16 here. All the advice I can give is to keep out of his customers' way so as they can find him at the Barton opera house.

A Healthful Treasure.

D. W. Fuller of Canajoharie, N.Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Webster Bros' drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. *

Constable's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Justice's Court of Third Township, county of Fresno, state of California, dated the 6th day of March, 1895, in certain action wherein G. A. Everts, as administrator of the estate of Wm. Wenton, deceased, as plaintiff, recovered judgment against E. R. Burr, defendant, for the sum of $236.45, besides interest and accruing costs, on the 21st day of November, 1894, I have levied upon the following described property, to-wit: The west half of the southeast quarter of section 4 township 14 south, range 23 east, M. D. B. and M. Lot ten in section ten, and lots one, four and five in section fifteen, both in township fourteen south, range twenty-five east, M. D. B. and M.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 30th day of March, 1895, at 12 o'clock m. of that day, in front of the court house, in the city and county of Fresno, I will sell all the right, title and interest of said R. Burr in and to the above described property, at public auction, for cash, gold coin of the United States, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment, with interest and costs, to the highest and best bidder.

Wm. Shaw, Constable.

THE STAY-AT-HOMES.

A POSSIBLE OUTCOME OF THE ALFALFA CLUB.

Deserted Benedicts and Lonely Bachelors Laying Plans for the Heated Season.

About the close of "leafy June" when mankind and womankind in Fresno begin to wilt and cast anxious eyes at the daily rising maximum on the thermometer, it is customary for many women and a few men who can get away to the coast to try on their traveling suits and talk pleasantly of their anticipated two-months outing. This does not always fall agreeably on the ears of the toilers who cannot get away, or the impecunious ones who have not the wherewithal to go. Last summer a number of bachelors and benedicts, whose enforced stay threatened to become not only a sweltering ordeal, but a lonely one, organized what they termed an Alfalfa club. There was a suggestion of "grass widower" about the title, but it was not till the wives returned that they learned how their spouses had contrived to while away the time in petit soupers, lawn socials and other pleasant devices, to say nothing of quiet poker games with a modest ante, and little stag parties that often lasted into the wee sma' hours. It is whispered that some of these little suppers and such-like frivolities were by no means tame and uninteresting; that the cooking was of the most recherche kind, with varieties unknown in the regular hum-drum of domestic cookery, and that so far from contemplating with horror a return of the torrid season, the bachelors and benedicts are preparing to improve on the success of last year.

Of course when a dear little wife hurries off on the first of July to Catalina Island, or the breezy metropolis by the sea, or to Castle Crags, or Lake Tahoe, or the hills of Marin, a pretty heavy assessment is levied on hubby's purse, to say nothing of the settlement with the milliner. When the exodus of the ladies, who are simply exasperated by the thought of 100 degrees in the shade, takes place, there is a big hole made in the most plethoric of purses, and humbler wallets suffer in proportion. Anyhow, the fair ones depart, and hubby is left, like the last rose of summer, blooming alone. He affects to be disconsolate and pretends that his dreams are haunted by jealous visions of attentive suitors on steamers and suave masculine acquaintances made by his wife in the seaside hotels. But if all the whisperings are true, the derelict benedict is not always inconsolable, and the indications are that this year the Alfalfa club will have a largely increased membership and additional attractions.

It has been pointed out that since the exodus of the ladies of Fresno takes so large a quantity of money out of the county it would not be a bad plan to offer inducements to metropolitan ladies and gentlemen, weary of the summonss of the hay city climate, to come down to Fresno and try a sun bath for a couple of months. There are vocalists and pianists in San Francisco who would just enjoy the change, and they would be as welcome as the flowers in May. They might easily find inducements to stay and make their home here. Our own professional violin and cornet players, and the like, will of course remain with us, and the chances are—if the Alfalfa club gets an increased membership—including the ladies who cannot get away—that a very pleasant series of lawn socials, with musical accessories and moonlight sonatas, might be arranged.

If all the rumors are to be credited, the single ladies who are forced to remain in town, by the claims of their occupation, do not mean to let stag parties exclusively monopolize the minds of the bachelors and the forlorn benedicts may at least look on bright eyes and shimmering summer dresses. Of course, every well-regulated benedict will be careful to write the usual tri-weekly letter, saying that he is absolutely inconsolable; but in the light of present developments a gentle skepticism will be apt to replace the blissful confidence of the many fair ones who have fled, year after year, from the summer heat, leaving the "old man" at the mercy of the "new woman." This is an age of women's clubs, and if a "stay-at-home" club for the ladies of Fresno who cannot get away should be started in opposition to the Alfalfa club, or should exchange courtesies with its members, the return of the migratory spouses in the fall would be apt to be the advent of a stormy domestic winter.

Anyhow the hold-over members of the Alfalfa club are "sawing wood" with a knowing smile on their faces and talking of a largely increased membership and a "hallelujah" time, the thermometer notwithstanding.

THE TEN-MILE RACE.

Won by John Hertweck in Thirty Minutes.

The bycycle race and dance at the Fair Grounds last Sunday were attended by a large number of people. The day was an ideal one for an outing. The day's sport was good and the dance in the evening was a grand success. The ten-mile bicycle race was the drawing card of the day. It was won by John Hertweck in 30 minutes. Shafer had the fastest time, making the ten miles in 25.40.

There were seven contestants, John Hertweck, Claude Shafer, William Barton, Robert Barton, and Fred Ross of Hanford. Frank Fleaharty, also of Hanford, had entered, but he was taken sick on Saturday and could not come. The track was in fine condition. For local riders the time made was very good.

John Hertwick was given a handicap of one minute, while he should have been put on the scratch.

John Cartwright and Ed Hertwick were given a handicap of thirty seconds. Following is the order in which the riders won, there being a prize for each rider: J. Hertwick, first; Cartwright, second; Shafer, third; William Barton, fourth; R. Barton, fifth; Ed Hertwick, sixth; Ross, seventh.

In the ninth mile Ross and Ed Hertwick had a collision with no serious consequences. The race was a pretty one.

Before the great race there were a number of minor events. Harvey Peachman, who is gaining a reputation as a sprinter, won a 100-yard foot race from Fred Lamond in 11 seconds. Ralph Petkovich won a quarter mile bicycle race in 42½ seconds. James Faber and Will Lane were his opponents.

NEWSPAPER MAN SHOT.

Walter P. Blake's Experience With a Footpad.

About 11.30 Saturday night Walter P. Blake, city editor of the Stockton Independent, was shot by a footpad, in an alley back of the Palace hotel in San Francisco. He was returning from the Examiner office to the Grand hotel when a man ordered him to throw up his hands. He did so, and with his cane dealt a blow on the robber's head, knocking off his hat. Blake then ran. The robber fired and the shot took effect above the hip, knocking Blake down. The wound is painful but not dangerous. Blake was a reporter on the REPUBLICAN four years ago.

Jackson Hall, a printer, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of being Blake's assailant. A few minutes after the shooting, Hall, hatless and breathless and suffering from a wound in the head, such as a cane would inflict, ran into the St. David's house where he roomed and went to bed. The police heard of it and arrested him.

Hall admits that he was the man who got the benefit of Blake's cane, but denies that he fired the pistol. He says a man sprang out of the shadow of a house and struck him.

VEGETABLE GARDENING.

A Point for the Hundred Thousand Club to Consider.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—From the report of the proceedings of the executive committee of the Hundred Thousand club, as published in Saturday's REPUBLICAN, it appears they failed to appoint a committee on vegetable gardening. Now if Fresno county is to be the dwelling place of 100,000 people at any time in the near future, it is very necessary that men of families take a hand in raising and selling vegetables. I have followed the business in a small way for the last three years and I know the average family in ordinary good times use each day more than 20 cents worth of vegetables, small fruits, etc. If a man has ten families for regular customers it will make him over $2 a day, more than $14 a week the entire year, and an average family can on quite a small piece of land raise all this produce with their own labor and a large part of their living besides. When the 100,000 come here to live—and they are coming—0.09† of them can find very profitable employment raising vegetables, small fruits, etc., for home consumption.

THOMAS ELROD.

A REAL CALIFORNIAN.

LIFE INCIDENTS OF THE LATE JOSE C. ROJAS.

He Was Born at Monterey in the Days When Dana Wrote His Famous Book.

Jose Ciriaco Rojas, who died in this city on Saturday last, was neither a man of means nor a genius, but his name will not be forgotten in a day, after his mortal remains have been interred in the Catholic cemetery at Mountain View this morning.

Mr. Rojas was a native son in the amplified sense of the term. He was born at Monterey, just about the time that Sloat hoisted the American flag over the walls, and while California was still a Mexican province. His pedigree dated far and honorably back of this and he was an old Californian in the aristocratic sense of the term, if in this age of plutocracy a lineage counts for anything.

Young Rojas lived at Monterey in the days when "whalery" was in full blast, and when California hides were celebrated the world over. How laboriously they were packed and freighted, Dana has told only too faithfully in "Two Years Before the Mast." From Monterey Rojas went to a Catholic seminary at San Jose to improve his education. Though he never aspired to any scholarly pretensions he was a man of fair education and raised his family on the same lines, giving them the best advantages his means would afford. After completing his education Rojas learned the trade of a sadler, and lived successively at Tres Pinos, and at Winnemucca, Nev. He came to Fresno from the last named place, where he kept a saddlery store and barber shop. He had lived in this city ten years.

The death of Mr. Rojas was due to pulmonary consumption. The exciting cause was an internal injury to the chest, caused by a fall at the Plymouth Rock shoe store in May of last year. The door of the store was closed, and Mr. Rojas, who was a very small man, good naturally undertook to get through the transom. In doing so he fell, spraining both ankles and injuring himself internally. He went to a San Francisco hospital for some months, but when he returned it was seen that his days were numbered. He was attenuated almost to a skeleton when he died.

Mr. Rojas leaves a widow, five daughters and a son. He has a brother and a sister in San Francisco, who will attend the funeral at the Catholic church this morning. The members of Fresno Lodge, F. & A. M., of which deceased was a member, will take part in the funeral cortege, but not as an organization.

Although a Mexican at the time of the conquest, Mr. Rojas accepted the result in the best spirit and became a thorough American, remaining so to the day of his death.

The warm weather of the past two days caused a big show of cockroaches and bugs in the vicinity of the City Park, fronting the depot, and a bushel or more of the insects were shoveled out dead beneath the lights of the stores to which they had been attracted.

UNWRITTEN HISTORY.

REMINISCENCE OF THE CHRIS EVANS CHASE.

How Sheriff Scott Was Saved From a Death Trap by a Goat.

A scrap of unwritten history, connected with the pursuit of Evans and Morrell, has just come to light. It might have come to light long ago if Sheriff Scott had seen fit to tell it, but he kept it to himself, and as he was the only person who knew of it, the incident remained a secret in the precincts of his own bosom until a few days ago when he concluded it would do no good to keep it any longer.

The sheriff with three trusty officers had reason to believe that Evans and Morrell were at a certain house south of Kings river, and they stealthily approached the place in the night and kept watch with the expectation that the outlaws would leave sometime before day break, and they could be pounced upon while taking their departure.

Daylight came, and Evans and Morrell had not left the house, and nothing had been seen to indicate that they were in the house; but this was no sign, for it was well known that Evans often remained at a house for a day or two, and it was not unreasonable to suppose that he and Morrell had decided to remain there till the next night.

Soon after daylight a boy came out of the house. Sheriff Scott hailed him, while the other officers remained concealed. The lad denied in the most emphatic manner that there was anybody in the house except his mother and sister. The sheriff questioned him closely, but he stuck to his story, and finally Scott went to the house and the boy's mother met him at the door. She said there was nobody about the house but herself and two children. There was something in her manner which left a suspicion in Sheriff Scott's mind that something was wrong, but the woman insisted that the coast was clear.

"All right," said Scott, "but I will have to search the house anyway."

"Search it if you want to," she replied, "but you will not find anybody."

The sheriff cautiously pushed open the door of a bedroom, and saw at a glance that no one was in it; but just then he heard a slight shuffle in an adjoining room, and he realized that he was in pretty close quarters.

"Who is in that room?" he demanded of the woman.

She was beginning to grow excited, but still declared that the room was vacant.

"I know there is somebody in there. Now, who is it?" demanded the sheriff.

"Nobody," replied she, and seemed about ready to cry.

All this time the boy was standing by and was scared so badly he was constantly on the point of jumping out the window. The sheriff was not feeling very comfortable himself, but he demanded again who was in that room. The boy could stand the strain no longer, and bawling and hallowing at the top of his voice, he roared out:

"It's my goat; don't you take it."

It is needless to add that Sheriff Scott was thankful it was a goat, and he considered himself miraculously delivered from the closest quarters he was ever in.

Court Notes.

The following business was transacted in the several departments of the superior court yesterday:

BEFORE JUDGE CAMPBELL, DEPARTMENT 2.

T. C. Marceau vs. C. G. Sayle; counsel allowed ten days additional time in which to file a brief.

F. S. Holt vs. Annie K. White; the plaintiff allowed ten days further time in which to file a brief.

The People vs. William G. Lane; set for trial April 22d.

Caroline L. Patterson vs. Rollo E. Keeler, as administrator; complaint amended by counsel, and defendant allowed five days in which to answer.

BEFORE JUDGE WEBB, DEPARTMENT 3.

Cora B. Perry vs. W. G. Ross; continued till tomorrow.

George O. Duman vs. C. H. Hawn; under advisement.

A Hooded Bat.

Last evening a hooded bat was discovered in the dome of the court house, and after a chase was captured and is now in the possession of County Assessor J. P. Vincent, who will probably send it to the Academy of Sciences. These animals are rare, at least in Fresno, no person being found who has ever seen one before. It is about four times as large as an ordinary bat, and is about as ugly as nature can devise. It has a thick, leathery hood over its head, and has an expanse of wing of a foot or more.

Calico Gift Party.

The directors of the Little Women Sewing class and members of the Parlor Lecture club will give a calico gift party on Monday evening, April 15th, for the benefit of the class. The members hope all those attending will drop in the hamper at the door a few yards of calico. Tickets can be purchased of members of the club.

Wife Beater Fries Again Arrested.

Jacob Fries was again arrested yesterday for beating his wife. Mrs. Fries lodged the complaint of battery against her husband yesterday afternoon in Justice Austin's court. She alleges that Fries struck and whipped her several times on Sunday. They reside in the southern part of the city. Fries has been arrested a number of times for beating his wife.

A Mexican woman last Sunday had Kesus Benitos arrested for disturbing her peace. She said that Benitos was drunk and came came into her room and disturbed and annoyed her very much. Officer Caufield made the arrest. Benitos was yesterday brought before Recorder Clark, who discharged him when he learned of the facts of the case.

A Boy Held Fast by a Heavy Rock.

Last Thursday evening two boys named Walter Brown and William Yager, aged 13 years each, went a hunting for rabbits on the hills near Letcher postoffice, on Dry creek. On a rocky point they discovered a cave with a narrow opening, only large enough for one person to enter at a time. Over this entrance a rock weighing from 500 to 600 pounds was hanging on uncertain support.

The boys decided to explore the cave, and young Yager slipped down the incline into the cavern, but as Brown was following, the overhanging rock fell on him, wedging him fast. But fortunately its entire weight did rest on him. Yager was able to squeeze out past the rock, and running to the post office, gave the alarm. William Hogue and his son and the blacksmith went to the boy's assistance, and after great trouble succeeded in removing the rock. The boy was not much hurt, but had the stone fallen on his body instead of his legs it would have killed him; or, had it fallen after both boys had passed into the cave it would have shut them in, perhaps forever.

BROKE THE RECORD.

Score of Company F at the Belmont Grounds.

At the target practice last Sunday at the Belmont grounds, Sergeant G. W. Jones broke the record for Fresno by making the remarkable score of 46 out of a possible 50. He previously held the highest score, 45, but has now made one point more. The shooting is done off-hand over a 200-yard range.

The following exceedingly good scores were also made: Major C. Chisholm, 44; Private G. R. Andrews, 44; Lieutenant E. T. Walcott, 43; A. Zepperlin, 43; F. W. Hansen, 40; O. F. Packard, 40; G. Perry, 36; J. S. Marble, 35; Charles Lane, 35; I. E. Malder, 34; Lieutenant J. M. Collins, 30. The ten highest scores give an average of 40.6.

Pleasantly Entertained.

Last Friday evening a number of Miss Grace Ford's young friends gave her a surprise party at her home on South I. street, the occasion being the anniversary of her 16th birthday. Games of various kinds were indulged in, during which everybody kissed everybody and all enjoyed themselves highly. At the conclusion of the games an elegant supper was served, and it was long past the midnight hour before the young folks dispersed to their homes.

A DERELICT BABY

SENT WITHOUT WARNING TO ITS MOTHER IN SAN JOSE.

Put Aboard the Cars at Fresno With a Letter of Identification.

When the 2.45 a.m. northbound train pulled out of the depot in this city on Sunday morning it carried a passenger without a ticket. Just as the wheels began to revolve, a man hitherto unnoticed placed an infant on the seat of a car with the remark that the minister of the Baptist church of Fresno knew all about it. In an interview the same evening the Rev. H. G. DeWitt, of the First Baptist church of this city, was prompt to disclaim any knowledge of the circumstances leading up to such an event, and the Rev. G. W. Swift of Emmanuel Baptist church was equally ready with a disclaimer. Subsequent investigation vindicated both of these gentlemen, directly and indirectly, and furnishes an interesting story.

When the train had reached Collis the conductor telegraphed, via Fresno, to Superintendent Wilder in Oakland that a child, without natural guardians, was aboard the cars. It was added, in the brief dispatch, that the child's mother was Mrs. Emma Matlock of Warm Springs, Santa Clara county.

Following is the full text of the letter pinned to the child's clothing:

HOTEL PLEASANTON, FRESNO, Cal.,
March 25, 1895.

CONDUCTOR—Dear Sir:—Please see that this little girl is sent to her mother at San Jose. She is working at Warm Springs. Her name is Mrs. Emma Matlock. This is her child. She wants it so bad. Friends, see that she gets there safe. Her mother will pay all expenses. Be good to her as you can.

Mrs. Covey, a member of the Advent church, is well acquainted with her, and also Rev. Gallahorn, the Baptist evangelist, knows where she lives at San Jose. May God bless the dear babe and take care of her.

The letter bore no signature. Two hours before the train started the ticket agent noticed a dark-complexioned man of medium height, with black mustache, reclining on a seat in the ladies' waiting room, which was dimly lighted. He had a child in his arms. About this time two women, one of whom appeared to be a Spaniard or Mexican, and the other closely veiled, held a conference with the man, and shortly afterwards left. Subsequent efforts to find the man proved fruitless.

The child was taken by Conductor Liese to his home in East Oakland, and in the afternoon of Sunday he and his wife went to San Jose and delivered the child to its mother. She failed to identify it as it had been taken from her at the age of three months. Mrs. Matlock and her husband had been living apart, and he had cared for the child on account of his wife's illness.

Evangelist Gallahorn, who was interviewed at San Jose, where he is now working, said that while conducting revivals at Fresno he received an anonymous note from a man, in which he spoke of his convictions and wanted to make his peace. Later the writer turned out to be a man named Matlock, who spoke of having a wife and child, but a separation kept them apart. On Monday of last week when the revivalist left Fresno, a man whom Rev. Gallahorn does not know, handed him a sealed message to be delivered to "Mrs. Emma Matlock, Warm Springs, or care of Mrs. Covey's, an Adventist." The message was not yet delivered, the reverend gentleman having forgotten it. He says he concludes they are separated, and Matlock put the child on the train to send to her. A Mrs. Allen Matlock of San Jose says a stranger called on her about two months ago, saying he was a piano tuner, and that he had an adopted daughter whom he had secured in a foundling home, and who was then visiting him here. She was married to a man named Matlock. The stranger said nothing about an estrangement.

A Chinese Opinion of the Administration of Law.

The following is a verbatim copy of a communication received yesterday by the REPUBLICAN, written by a well-known and respectable Chinaman of this city: "cause the Trustees to give good Rule in chinatown, that poor person his Worry. How, because no place to live on, and Rich men his have Plenty money to spend that the officers not be—attend for them. The street of tulare that patch of Building many flowers pots in there, and the Building Was cover in the street of the sidewalk. now. How, the law are you be Rule, and many White men and woman come over to smoking opuim. How, the law to be Rule in this city. Please answer. your please put this news in your morning paper. remain Respectfully, W. T."

At first glance the above may appear simply as an interesting specimen of English as written by a foreigner who is well enough posted to act satisfactorily as court reporter. But there is a meaning in it, and the writer is asking in all seriousness why the poor people who live in dens under the sidewalk must be driven out, having nowhere else to go, while the rich people who have plenty of money are not molested. He is pleading for his people, and in order to show that he understands the question he mentions incidentally that white people go to Chinatown to smoke opium. In other words, he expresses his belief in the doctrine that a man should pull the beam out of his own eyes before he bothers himself about plucking the mote out the eye of his neighbor. The writer of the letter may not be the master of such classic English as was used by Addison and Macaulay, but he can grasp the gist of a very highly developed philosophy of government.

How a Country Cousin Made Miserable a Newly Made Man About Town.

When an adaptive young man from the far corner of some New England or western state lives for a time in New York and absorbs enough of its atmosphere to gain the prestige of a regular boulevardier, it's pretty hard now and again to have old times thrust upon him in the person of a primitive cousin or brother-in-law, whom he is bound in conscience to entertain. A case of this kind occurred recently, in which the artless relative saw nothing but a screamingly funny lapse of memory, while the man about town found a mortification therein which was pretty hard to live through.

A complete deliverance of the bumpkin into the hands of the outfitter made him presentable, and then there was the little bachelor dinner at a Fifth avenue hotel given by the swell to all the smart men, who wanted "to meet your cousin, don't you know."

All went merry until the wine list came forth. To be sure, the bumpkin talked too loud and refused to understand my monitory wink, but then he said nothing too badly out of place.

"What wine will you have?" said the cousin, addressing him.

"Haw! Haw! I don't know, Cousin Dick, anything about the wine. You'll have to settle that yourself."

"Shall we begin on a bottle of Sauterne?"

"Lordy, how can I tell! Anything you like!" shouted the red checked, bullet headed youth, who couldn't make head or tail of the winks and looks of deadly warning emanating from the swell's eye.

People at adjoining tables pricked up their ears in amused curiosity, while the guests at the table looked a trifle disconcerted at the bumpkin's noise.

"What," said the swell, firmly planting his index finger on the word "Médoc" and glaring at the youth mesmerically, so that he might understand and repent it, "do you generally take?"

"Usually!" shouted the youth. "Haw, haw, haw! Isn't that great? Usually nothing! Of course! Never see wine. How could I? You know that, Cousin Dick, as well as I do. You never saw wine at home, and now New York makes you forget all about it. Usually! Haw, haw!" and the terrible youth stretched out at full length and roared satisfactorily for about five minutes, while a sense of frozenness stole over his cousin, and the swells looked on in amused pity.

That frozen cousin is dead henceforth to family ties in so far as dining social recruits is concerned, at least.—New York Herald.

THE FIRST HANSOM CAB.

Its First Customers Were Brokers, Who Caused It to Become Popular.

The first hansom cab in America had an interesting history. A reminiscent, voluble, red faced cabby told it into the other night up by the Thirty-third street stand. It was brought over in 1870 or 1871 by John Patent of the Pacific hotel, in Greenwich street, just above Cortlandt, and it cost £70. Its driver was old John Carter of Liverpool, since deceased, who came to New York in 1861. The original cab that John Carter drove was a handsome one, made very much like those now in use, but it had a claret body and red running gear. An interesting feature of it was that it was bolstered with a pair of patent axles, which were so complicated that Carter was the only man who could grease them.

For some reason the cab was not put into running immediately after it was imported, but was laid up in the stable for 1½ years. Then John Carter ran it from the Pacific hotel, but there was not business enough there, and he went down to the corner of Broad street and Exchange place, where trade flourished, and he used to get fares from the big brokers. Morosini was said to have been a good customer of his, and Jay Gould, if reports are accurate, rode in it once or twice. It was a familiar feature about the Stock Exchange for four years, and then it broke down, ending the career of the first hansom cab in America.—New York World.

He Knew the Ropes.

Of one subject even Mr. Freeman would have been forced to admit that Mr. Froude, the historian of the reformation, was a master. Froude was a born sailor and could manage a yacht or yawl in the ugliest sea as if he had been bred to the business. So he was quick to detect any slip that his friends, who were less expert, might make.

The workmanship of "Crockit Meg," he was pleased to say, was as good as could be, with one exception. "If you mean to take us to sea in this questionable little vessel, you must have your sea dialect looked over. The main sheet is a rope, not a sail. The jib is 'loosed' when you get under way and is the first sail taken in when you are coming to your moorings."—Blackwood's Magazine.

STORIES OF PAPER.

HOW WATER MARKS WERE MADE AND WHY THEY CAME INTO USE.

Clever Use Made of Them by Ireland In His Shakespearean Forgeries—Elaborate Designs Impressed by the "Dandy" Roller—The Bogus Virgin Mary Letter.

Stories and incidents innumerable are wound up in the art of paper making, and its mechanical processes have afforded to the ingenious story teller many a chance for a thrilling tale.

This is especially true of the system of placing water marks, so called, in various brands or makes of paper.

Perhaps the most interesting true story which has to do with this branch of the industry is that of the famous "Ireland's Confessions."

Ireland had fabricated some Shakespeare manuscripts, which for a long time were accepted as actual. They made such an impression indeed that a number of men, famous at that time for their erudition and for their literary standing, voluntarily prepared a testimonial attesting absolute belief in the authenticity of the manuscripts. To this document these men affixed their signatures and sent the paper broadcast.

The whole of the original edition of the fakes was disposed of in a few hours, and so great was the eagerness for the edition that single copies were disposed of in auction rooms at enormous prices.

Some time after that Ireland himself threw those gentlemen into much sorrow by explaining just how he had had fun with them.

Ireland's story was that the sheet of paper which he used was the outside of several others on which some accounts had been kept during the reign of Charles I. At that time Ireland was wholly unacquainted with the subject of water marks.

"I carefully selected," says he, "two half sheets not having any mark whatever, on which I penned my first effusion." A few pages further on he wrote: "Being thus urged forward to the production of more manuscripts, it became necessary that I should possess a sufficient quantity of old paper to enable me to proceed, in consequence of which I applied to a bookseller, who, for the sum of 5 shillings, suffered me to take from all the folio and quarto volumes in his shop the fly leaves which they contained.

"By this means I was amply stored with that commodity, nor did I fear any mention of the circumstances by the bookseller. As I was fully aware, from the variety of water marks which are in existence at the present day, that they must have constantly been altered since the period of Elizabeth, and being for some time wholly unacquainted with the water marks of that age, I very carefully produced my first specimens of the writing on such sheets of old paper as had no mark whatever.

"Having heard it frequently stated that the appearance of such marks on the papers would have greatly tended to establish their validity, I listened to every remark that was made on the subject, and I at length gleaned the intelligence that a jug was the prevalent water mark of the reign of Elizabeth, in consequence of which I inspected all the sheets of old paper then in my possession, and having selected such as had the jug on them I produced the succeeding manuscripts upon those, being careful, however, to mingle with them a certain number of blank leaves that the production on a sudden of so many water marks might not excite suspicion in the breasts of those persons who were most conversant with the manuscripts."

A traveler in Messina was once shown a letter written by the Virgin Mary with her own hand. He remarked that it must indeed be a miracle, since the paper showed by its water mark that it was not made till some centuries after the age of Mary.

It is the greatest mystery to most people how water marks are made. And yet the matter is the simplest thing in the world. In the manufacture of paper the pulp, before it has begun to be dried and after it has been spread on the moving platform, passes under a roller called the "dandy." On this "dandy" is affixed the device which works the water mark.

It is of bent wire, and as the roller presses the paper it presses into it the mark.

In the same manner most elaborate designs and even pictures and intricate representations of whole battle scenes have been done from an engraved plate similar to an electrotype, used in the same manner on the "dandy" roller.

Of course check paper and bank paper is the most important variety distinguished by water marks. In a pair of £5 note molds prepared by the old process there are 8 curved borders, 16 figures, 168 large waves and 240 letters, which had all to be separately secured by the finest wire to the curved surface.

There were 1,056 wires and 67,584 twists and the same repetition where the stout wires were introduced to support the under surface.

In ancient times the water marks were used for the same purposes as the old inn signs. The old inns had dolls and boehives, horses and various other forms as signs. For the same reason the paper makers had some distinguishing mark which made their product distinct from that of other makers.

A very famous mark of the sixteenth century was the handmark—a hand topped with a star. The jug or pot mark gave the name to the "pot" paper, while the foolscap mark used on paper of a certain size gave that size its name, which it retains to this day.

The post paper was so called because it bore a mark of a shield with a post horn on it.—London Letters.

A Delicate Distinction.

"Did you say you wanted Shakespeare's works?" asked the book store clerk.

"No," replied the haughty girl; "I want his plays."—Washington Star.

Where He Got It.

The little son of a well known physician was entertaining a playmate at his father's house. As children will, they ransacked every nook and corner of the building. Their curiosity led them to explore the recesses of a closet, in which the doctor keeps his instruments and other personal effects, among which is a complete skeleton. The strange boy was frightened when he first beheld the grinning remnant of what once had been a human being and started to run away. The doctor's son, however, had seen the skeleton so often that he entertained for it only that feeling of contempt begotten by familiarity, and in a little while succeeded in so allaying the fears of his companion that the youngster began to handle the thing and rattle its dry bones. "Where did your father get it?" he finally asked. "I don't know," was the reply, "but I guess it was his first patient, for he's had it an awful long time."—Detto Minor.

The Middle Temple's Secret.

While making some alterations in Middle Temple hall for the installation of the electric light into that stately edifice the workmen found a box concealed in a recess of the wall near the roof. It was opened, and in it they saw a skeleton in a perfect state of preservation. From the appearance of the bones it must have lain hidden there for a considerable time—perhaps a couple of centuries or more. Whether the skeleton be that of a lawyer or a client cannot now be ascertained, or it may even be an assumed framework which has been used in an atomical demonstration to illustrate how much the law can take out of a man. What the skeleton was in life and how it got into the box in Middle Temple hall are mysteries.—London Telegraph.

A Woman With Beauty and Nerve.

Since the death of Seyffert, the Vienna executioner, the authorities have received scores of applications for his place, of which the most curious is that of a pretty woman, who sends her photograph with the following letter:

"I am 18 years old and possess great physical strength. My sex and above all my beauty fit me for the employment I solicit. The fact is that the last person on whom the condemned man fixes his gaze is the executioner, who nine times out of ten is repulsively homely. How much more consoling it would be for a criminal before entering into eternity to have the knot adjusted by the soft hands of a woman, whose bewitching glances would cause him to forget for an instant the terrors of a mortal agony worse than death."—Vienna Letter.

HE HAD NO HARD FEELINGS.

You see that woman coming, Jack, dressed up in pink and gray?
Well, that's a woman whom I loved in times now passed away.
I used to visit her each night and write her every day.
And words of burning, eager love to her I'd often say.
I'd take her out to parties and to many a matinee,
Would send her every week or so a costly big bouquet.
Large sums spent of my salary I cheerfully would pay
For buggy rides and such like things to make our courtship gay.
Well, after all I'd done for her, this same young maid, Miss Muy,
Although her parents stern had said to such a marriage nay,
Packed up her clothes together and skipped lightly out one day
And wedded a young fellow down at Narragansett Bay.
Well, goodby, Jack, she's coming, and with her I must stray.
You say that you're astonished that a word to her I'd say;
That I should coldly snub and scorn such a deceitful fay.
But, don't you see? I am the man with whom she ran away.
—Charles J. Collum in New York Sun.

Thin Children.

The reason why they are thin is because their food does not nourish them. Probably they do not assimilate enough fat. Cod-liver Oil is the most easily assimilated of all fats, but in its natural state it upsets the stomach and deranges the digestion.

In Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites this difficulty is overcome. It is half-digested already and is very palatable. Children grow fat on it when all other food fails to nourish them.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!
